

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The present invention provides an improved Faraday cup configuration that allows determination of a non-zero angle of incidence and/or a beam divergence with high accuracy. Moreover, by substantially simultaneously and continuously displaying information of a plurality of Faraday cups, the set-up of an implantation tool may be significantly facilitated and may be carried out in a substantially automated manner.